Thanks to all that came out and helped us on work day, the range looked great for the TSRA CAS state championship. The results of the match are posted on lone star's Facebook page as well as the clubs website. I hope everyone that shot it had fun, targets were close and fast.

Once again a special thanks to: Cowtown Scout, Slo'az Molasses, Cowtown Jack, Hot Tamale, Chula Kat, Rock Rotten, Ben Scalped, Bent Star and Hawkshaw Fred.

For the May match at CVV this month on Saturday the 27th we'll have wild bunch and cowboy action at the same time. Wild bunch will have a few different stages so bring ammo for 4 or 5 stages should be about a 36 round count per stage (20 pistol, 10 rifle and 6 shotgun approximately). Cowboy shooters will shoot 6 stages probably a 24 round count (10 pistol, 10 rifle and 4 shotgun give or take a round or two).

Sunday the 28th we'll have 6 stages of cowboy action, sign ups start at 8:30 a safety meeting at 9:20 then start shooting at 9:30 both days.

Woo Doggy! Spring is in full swing and summer is just around the corner. Shooting season is here! We've already had several annual shoots and we're fresh off the TSRA Texas State Match and The Great Spaghetti Western at Texas Ten Horns. Both were fabulous shoots with the weather cooperating nicely. We had a bit of wind for the TSRA Match but at least bad rain stayed away. Some of us will be heading to New Mexico for End of Trail before we know it. I'm not quite ready but getting back to where I want to be. Seems I've been in one of those slumps for a bit. No doubt, it's all the work projects I've been doing but at least that's been an enormous source of fun and achievement. I'm way out of my comfort zone on the latest one, but that's the only way to grow. I had to invest a little money in myself, but hey, I get a great new toy out of the deal. One of them fancy RC helicopters to be specific. Very scary though. That sucker has some serious power and it appears I set it up way too hot for my skills. Got her tamed down now, but I must admit I'm still a bit intimidated by it. It's kind of like shooting a super high power rifle that kicks the be-Jesus out of you, knowing you have to shoot it again. Been there, done that.

SHADY CONTINUED

Looks like the only weekend available this fall for Showdown will be the 28th and 29th of October. And since it's close to Halloween we'll do a Halloween theme match complete with candy and fun side matches. I hope to have an application and match schedule out by the next club match in May.
See y'all at the range!

ROCK CONTINUED

With the election of President Trump, I figured we'd all have a bit of a reprieve on the political commentary. It would have been nice taking a break from all the vitriol in the news and on the web but that just hasn't been the case. The left is in full-on obstruction/protest mode and continues to disrupt what's supposed to be peaceful transfer of power.

These snowflakes just cannot accept the fact that Americans have seen them for what they are and we do not support the failed policies of the left. They only need to look at Venezuela to see exactly what socialism gets you, what socialism has always gotten you, what socialism will always get you. It appears Europe has yet to learn that lesson - I'm talking about the French who just elected as far left a candidate for their president as you can get. The media portrayed the candidate as a centrist but nothing could be further from the truth. Macron and Merkel will be pounding the final nails in the coffin of Europe over the next few years and it will be unrecognizable in 10 years. It is pretty much unrecognizable now. Our fight against the new world order is just beginning. Pray for our President. Pray for the poor souls of Europe. It is going to get dicey.

So I need to load up a ton of ammo for the rest of the season. I've been lax, using range brass instead of my good brass and I've paid the price. Sticky bullets not wanting to feed right in the 73 and primers backing out on the pistols. My own fault, but I'm just not that worried about being so perfect all the time. That is, until it really counts. I see a fair amount of issues during monthly matches as a good thing. It's good practice and often makes for some good laughs. And that's what we're all here for - good times. So get your brass filled up, shine them guns and let's all exercise our 2nd Amendment Right.

THE WILD BUNCH CORNER

By Dusty Boddams
SASS #1907

The Boddam Line: 747 equals 100%
In other words: 747 is 7 shooters for
(4) WB and 7 shooters for BAMB

A cool wet and windy day greeted a hardy band of wild bunch shooters with spotty showers to complement the day. Spirits were not dampened only uplifted as a fun and exciting match continued throughout the day. Starting at the fort with a nice combination of 20 pistol rounds shooting two sweeps on the pistol targets and the same on the rifle targets then using the rifle for two sweeps and finishing with the shotgun got the WB'ers revved and ready! We reversed this stage and shot it again. Moving over to Brazos point using 20 pistol, 10 rifle, 5 shotgun the competitors engaged statics, dueling trees, swingers and knockdowns. The stages were written so that we could then engage in reverse order for the next stage. A simple thing as starting from the finish gives a whole new attitude to the stage! Over to the old school house where a generalized gunfight broke out with some clay birds thrown from poppers just to keep it interesting. A quick bite of lunch, awards and back to the firing line for a couple of stages of BAMB ending the day on a great note.

By Wild Bunch rules, the power factor has an absolute floor of 150 ANY less earns a match DQ. The PF is simple to figure. Just multiply velocity by bullet weight example 675 fps x 230 equals 155,250. Drop the last three digits gives a 155 PF. Compared to other games 150 is a modest figure but it's safe and fair. Any mild steel target built to cowboy standards is safe to use and no damage will occur with the low velocity lead bullets used. In addition recoil is greatly reduced as compared to factory hard ball making the pistol easier to shoot. Rifles are subject to the same standard. Chrono's are used at state level and above matches to check for compliance.

TSRA State Wild Bunch Match April 28th, 2017 Hosted by LSFSS, match director, Goatneck Clem

The match featured six well thought out stages true to WB standards. Targets were at a fair distance with all targets being very hit-able and had all the signature items including statics, dueling trees, falling tombstones, snuff can plate rack, hostage targets, swingers, mission bells and clay bird flippers! 17 fierce and able competitors traveled from near and far to participate in this great competition. This was a shooters match! The posse worked well together and lots of fun was had by all. After the match Colorado Jackson manned the grill in charge of brats and dogs, music playing, pleasant conversation, more of a nice Texas porch party feel and after lunch it was awards time, MC by Texas Ghost awarding the first place traditional class state championship to Greased Lightnin second to HooDoo Brown and first place modern class Texas State Championship to Dusty Boddams and second to Slowas Molasses. Pictures were taken and hands were shaken and then it was time for the TSRA State Championship BAMB. Two stages 10 shots each with all the competitors being seasoned match winners competition was fierce! When the dust settled the TSRA state champion is Capt Bruce Jarrett, second Greased Lightnin, third Dusty Boddams, fourth Goatneck Clem and fifth HooDoo Brown. A great day of shooting fun and a successful fundraiser for TSRA, make plans for the next one and that's the Boddam line.

FROM THE MEMBERSHIP COORDINATOR

By Rio Hondo Rob
SASS #57012

In a departure from my normal thoughts, I have observations I made during the Friday TSRA Wild Bunch Championship. This article should really be entitled: WILD BUNCH casual observations from our TSRA TX State Match

1. As we have been told before, SASS Wild Bunch competition really isn't just CAS with a .45 Automatic Colt Pistol (.45 ACP)
2. Wild Bunch (WB) is louder. You'll want better hearing or ear protection.
3. All WB guns eject, throw, their spent cartridges. More work for Brass Pickers to get done.
4. Stand in the right spot, and the .45 ACP will throw the spent brass to or at you.
5. Stand in the wrong spot and the .45 ACP bullet ricochets will hit you. They can hurt (and more). Ouch!
6. There's a very audible "clank" when the bigger WB slugs hit the steel targets. Easy to hear the hits.

SASS WB Power Factor definitely enforced!

7. Drop those empty magazines and then slam a 5-round-loaded magazine back in, smooth and fast.

8. With their magazine tube fully crammed with shotgun rounds, nearly every shooter can cycle their 1897 (or Model 12) pump gun about as fast as T.R.O.

9. You need to be able to recognize and clear .45 ACP jams, quickly. It's part of the action.

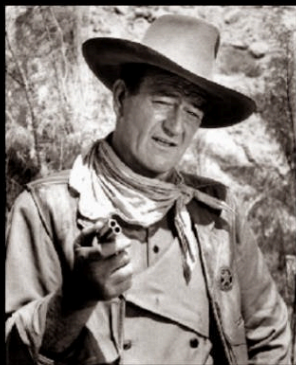

10. Shooting a clean WB stage is rare, not likely. Shooting a clean WB match seems pretty impossible.

11. The Brazos Point stage(s) are sturdy, well-constructed, and versatile. The old Astro Turf sport surface is a great idea!

12. At Ormsby Ranch, there is Wild Bunch action every month, the 4th Saturday, CVV Match Weekend !!! C'mon out !!

And finally.....lucky number.....

13. I think Wild Bunch shooting takes more practice, more skill. And, I think Wild Bunch shooters are having MORE FUN !

GUN CONTROL

Requires concentration and a very steady hand.

LAST PUBLIC HANGING IN PALO PINTO COUNTY

By German Jack Fordern
SASS #101556

Pioneer John Thomas Baker was born in 1860 and walked to Texas from Mississippi in 1876. He migrated to what was then called "Loving's Valley" in Palo Pinto County (present day Salesville, TX). His first wife died of a miscarriage after having two children. John Baker married Timmie Inez Herring on 12-20-1894. In September of that year, while he was still a single man with two young boys, Baker heard there was to be a hanging in the town of Palo Pinto, TX; this was the first, last, and only legal public hangin' in the county. The criminal, 22 year old John Dove, had raped a young girl. He was tried and found guilty the previous spring, then sentenced to "hang by the neck until dead". The court of appeals upheld the conviction. The hope for clemency from the Governor never came. This horrible crime had startled and enraged most everyone. The sentence was up held as well.

The coming event was well advertised throughout the community. As was often the case, a carnival atmosphere was expected. John Thomas Baker decided to attend the event. Living just east of Garner, TX, the whole region was just a few years removed from the Indian Wars. Everyone still traveled by horse, wagon, and buggy. It was 30-40 miles over to Palo Pinto, but John decided to make the horseback ride. He asked a neighbor of the local Lampkin family to babysit his boys while he was gone for three days. When he arrived at Palo Pinto, the audience was reminiscent of a county fair. He felt the raucous environment was downright dangerous. People were betting on if young John Dove would die quickly, or how long he would linger. Corn whiskey was sold, and some were shooting off their pistols. People had come from everywhere to see the historic event.

The jailer was so afraid of the mob, he had his wife take their four young children south of the jail to a creek to crouch under a high rock ledge, where he felt they could feel secure until after the execution and until the mob dispersed. Many other locals hid out for a couple of days as well. John Baker said later that was one of the scariest situations he had ever been in. despite the historical significance of the hanging, Baker recalled the event was something horrible. He never did decide whether or not his witness was of any benefit to him. Baker was so glad he had left his young boys Henry and Cleveland back at the Lampkin farm.

The lady that had sewn the black hood that John Dove wore over his head kept the hood as a relic for years to come. The hangman's noose was kept and installed in the jail in 1907; since then, this jail is now the Palo Pinto Museum. The gallows are there, as well. They can be viewed by visitors today.

John Thomas Baker was my great-grandfather.

SASS® Presents

THE FORT GOES BLACK

The TEXAS State Black Powder Shootout May 20-21, 2017

In conjunction with 2017 SENIOR GAMES

The Senior Games are a special time for grownups with experience — the Used-to-B's (60 or older) We're delighted for our young friends — the Wanna-B's (59 or younger) to come and have fun with us. The Used-to-B's will be scored against each other, with a separate division for the Wanna-B's. This year, the event will include the Texas State Blackpowder Championship as well. All Blackpowder shooters will be scored against each other — their scores will be in both the Blackpowder Division, and the age division. To make this all work, the MAIN MATCH will be scored on TOTAL TIME, not rank points. Pretty fun!

Friday Afternoon—Long Range from the Blockhouse

Saturday and Sunday AM—Main Match

Saturday Afternoon— FUN side matches
3 stage Plainsman
3 stage Wild Bunch

All Safety Briefings are Mandatory
